THE INDIAN REPORTS OFFICE
RAMAKOTI BUILDINGS,
Madras, E.....1912.

Dear Sir,

We regret to announce to you that we have, neither under preparation nor contemplation, the issue of any further volumes in this series

This series was as you know, issued by us in partnership with the late Mr T. V Sanjiva Row, which has dissolved on account of his death as a consequence, the Indian Reports Office is now only in the process of being wound up. The managing representative of our late partner has been widely circulating that "the Indian Reports publication has ceased to exist."

We are very sorry that, under the circumstances stated above, we have to terminate this series abruptly at the fifth volume without completing, in this series, the [illegible] W. P. High Court Reports as originally announced.

POST CARD

Thanking you for the very generous support you have given to our publication all along,

THE LAW REPORTS OFFICE,
POST BOX 161,
Madras, 21-12-12.

Dear Sir,

We have the pleasure to announce to you that on the termination of our work in the Indian Reports (which is now in the process of being wound up, on account of the death of our partner, Mr T V Sanjiva Row) we have started this new series to carry out the same object in the same manner.

We alone have been granted by the Government of India the exclusive permission to issue verbatim reprints of all the High Court Reports.

You are perhaps not aware that we have commenced our new series from where the fifth volume of the I. R. terminates and that we have devoted the first two volumes to a complete reprint of the N. W. P. High Court Reports. The fifth volume of the I. R. and the first two volumes of our new series will thus form a "complete set" of the early Allahabad Reports.

No volume after the Fifth is, either under preparation or contemplation, for issue in the Indian Reports. To quote the words of the managing representative of our late partner, "the Indian Reports publication has ceased to exist."

Ours is therefore the only edition uniform with the Fifth volume of I. R. issued to complete the set of early Allahabad Reports commenced in it.

The first Volume is ready (the Press Opinions of which are given on the back), and the second will be issued in about a month. The price of each ~~Volume is~~ Rs. 7 net

We request you to send us the accompanying form of order duly filled up to enable us to send you the completing volumes, and the 'High Court Reports' of the other High Courts.

We remain,
Yours faithfully,
M. SUBRAMANIAM,
M. V. KRISHNASWAMY

P. S.—Please write to us to the address, Post Box 161 Madras, for information regarding 'The Law Reports.'

PRESS OPINIONS

THE 'LAW REPORTS

BRITISH INDIA.

THE BOMBAY LAW REPORTER

(15 JANUARY, 1912 ; XIV, P. 22)

This volume is published in continuation of the Indian Reports Series.....The Notes appended to the cases betray the same care and learning which were to be found in the Indian Reports. The editors have done well in giving a good index at the end. The production of the early High Court Reports at a moderate price and in convenient size deserves help from the profession.

THE HINDUSTAN REVIEW

(JANY. 1912, P. 89)

In the volume under notice,...North-West Provinces High Court Reports (Volumes I—III)...are reproduced verbatim, with the headnotes, arguments of counsel and statement of facts prepared by the law officers of the Government. The special feature of the undertaking is that extracts from Acts and Regulations are given in foot-notes to make the cases that bear on them easily intelligible. The volume is strongly and elegantly bound in half-leather and there is a ribbon to serve as a book-mark. The printing is neat and accurate and the arrangement of matter is such as will facilitate reference. The series will be a great help to the legal profession.

THE CALCUTTA WEEKLY NOTES

(27 NOVR. 1911 : XVI, P. xvi) :—

"The volume is very neatly got up and will prove useful.

THE MADRAS MAIL

(22 DECR. 1911) :—

The Law Reports Series issued by Messrs. M. Subramaniam and M. V. Krishnaswamy, High Court Vakils, the first volume of which has just been published, will doubtless take a high place in the class of legal publications which have achieved marked success by their general excellence and usefulness...The profession therefore ought to feel all the more thankful to the Editors, for having undertaken a task whereby these valuable reports have been rendered easily accessible. That the Editors have been anxious to do their best to earn the appreciation of the legal profession would be apparent by noticing some of the characteristic features of this Series...The general appearance of the volume is made highly attractive by the superior printing and get up. It is gratifying to find that this volume is free from several of the defects that usually characterise official and non-official Law Reports in this country and approximates to the English standard of similar publications. The lawyers and judges in the country are certain to appreciate its numerous virtues and points of usefulness and give the great undertaking adequate encouragement and support.

THE ALLAHABAD LAW JOURNAL

(1 DECR. 1911 ; VIII, P. 222)

The learned Editors, Messrs. Subramaniam and Krishnaswamy, have taken up the consolidation of the current Indian case law in hand. They were the joint Editors with Mr. T. V. Sanjiva Row of the Indian Reports.....The get-up and the binding are excellent.

Vol. I. of the Law Reports contains N. W. P. High Court Reports vols. 1 to 3; with Notes, Index, etc.
